CREWMEN ABOARD THE Coast Guard cutter Raritan direct water toward a $40,000 cabin cruiser which exploded Sunday after participating in "Blessing of the Fleet" festivities in Menominee harbor. Owner Ray Lasee of DePere, Wis., leaped to safety, and was reached uninjured by Raritan, which had been patrolling a crowd of 200 boats at the blessing ceremony. Lasee said blessing of his cruiser earlier "may have saved me." (AP Wirephoto)

Asian Policy Flexible Enough To Maneuver

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has defense commitments to nine Asian countries, but they are vague and flexible enough that President Nixon can mold virtually any kind of Asian policy he wants.

In the wake of Nixon's Asian tour, administration officials say they are convinced he intends to reduce sharply the total U.S. military role in Asia—probably putting most reliance on air and sea forces—as rapidly as Vietnam developments permit.

Nixon's Senate critics, notably Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Foreign Relations Committee, say they are baffled as to his intentions because he has talked about avoiding any new Vietnam treaty obligations plus some strongly worded assurances of his own in the case of Thailand. In addition Nixon has implied some commitments that are general enough to cover any Asian country in the event of nuclear threat or attack. Well-informed officials regard this as applying particularly to India, even though that traditionally neutral country has never had an alliance with the United States or the communist powers.

Covers All

The network of U.S. alliances in Asia is largely an outgrowth of negotiation of the peace treaty with Japan in 1951 and the collapse of French power in Southeast Asia in 1954. The treaties thus came a few years after the North Atlantic Alliance between the United States and the Western European countries and are less binding than the NATO pact.

NATO and the earlier western hemisphere alliance, the 1947 Rio Treaty, both specify that an attack on any one of the member nations "shall be considered an attack against them all."

Principles Differ

Asian pacts all follow a different principle. The basic Asian treaty, signed in 1954, is the SEATO agreement which states that each country recognizes that an armed aggression in Southeast Asia "would endanger its own peace and safety" and that each would meet "the common danger in accordance with its constitutional processes."

SEATO, apart from the United States, Britain and France, included New Zealand, Australia, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan. It also covered South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia with an offer of protection if they ask for it.

In the case of the SEATO treaty's volunteered protection for Laos and Cambodia, the coverage later was removed and the treaty actually was applied only to South Vietnam.

Fontaine Pays

CENTREVILLE (AP)—Actor Frank Fontaine, who won fame as television's "Crazy Guggenheim" Monday was ordered to pay $384 dollars to an Indiana air line.

Fontaine was ordered by the St. Joseph County Circuit Court to pay the money for past services to Auburn Airways, Inc. The airline said Fontaine failed to pay after he flew to the St. Joseph County fair in September, 1966.

Mars Pictures On TV Tonight; Caps Visible

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 7 streaked across the Martian south polar cap today, snapping and storing pictures scientists said would glue tonight's television viewers to their chairs.

Preliminary signals flashed on monitors at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory were evidence, a spokesman said, that the photographs as finally transmitted would be "beautiful," showing features of the planet's southern hemisphere never seen before.

Commented Dr. Robert B. Leighton, California Institute of Technology astronomer, as he viewed the incoming signals: "Wait until you see the full scale pictures of the polar cap—Wow! We are seeing the antarctic wastes of Mars."

To newsmen the signals were a confusing hash of white and gray squares. Scientists' trained eyes, however, saw patterns which they identified as craters, large dark areas and the vast white polar cap.

In telescope photographs the cap appears smoothly circular. Approach pictures by Mariner 7 and its twin, Mariner 6, which swept along the Martian equator last Thursday, showed that the cap really has a ragged fringe and a dark splotch in the center.

Scientists expected Mariner 7's closeups to help solve the puzzles created by these new findings, perhaps answering the question of whether the cap is made of ice or frozen carbon dioxide—"dry ice."

Mariner 7's fly-by pictures from 2,000 miles high were stored on tape for televising over three hours starting at 8:30 EDT tonight.

During the fly-by, flight controllers turned on scientific instruments to measure the temperature of the planet's surface and the chemistry of its atmosphere. All worked flawlessly, including an infrared scanner scientists thought might have been damaged when the spacecraft went silent for seven hours last week.

3 More Raise Steel Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Three more major steel producers have joined in raising prices of flat-rolled steel.

Latest to follow the move initiated last week by U.S. Steel Corp. were National Steel Corp., Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp.

This left only Republic Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. holding the price line today.

National, Jones & Laughlin and Wheeling-Pittsburgh announced identical increases—$4.50 a ton on cold-rolled sheets and $6 a ton on hot-rolled sheets.

Flat-rolled steel is used in the manufacture of automobiles, appliances and many other consumer items. It accounts for about half of total industry shipments.

Developing normal relations with the Soviet Union.

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the speech might possibly provide a bit of encouragement and revealed that the three western occupation allies—the United States, France and Britain—were consulting with the West Germans on a new probe of Soviet intentions.

Bonn does not share Rogers' carefully guarded optimism, but government sources feel that Nixon and Rogers have shown they are just as realistic as Bonn about the possibility of serious bargaining on Berlin.

In his talks with Nixon and other top U.S. officials, Kiesinger also is expected to seek assurances that the American presence in Europe will be maintained.

FBI Enters Coed Probe As Search Moves West

ANN ARBOR (AP) — While holding one man and seeking another, authorities said today they believe "there are other people some way involved" in the slayings of seven Michigan college coeds and teen-aged girls.

This disclosure came at a police news briefing as a nationwide search continued for Andrew Manuel, 25, reportedly last seen in Salinas, Calif.

The FBI entered the investigation for the first time when a federal fugitive warrant was issued against Manuel Monday in the theft of a house trailer in Michigan.

Manuel, tall and heavy, with a tattooed left forearm, is believed by authorities to have journeyed to California in June with John Norman Collins, a 22-year-old college student charged with the most recent of the seven slayings in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in just over two years.

In Same House

Manuel and Collins lived in the same Ypsilanti rooming house and the trailer was found over the weekend near the Salinas home of Manuel's parents.

Authorities here told today's news conference that witnesses have placed Collins in California "during the time of some" of three unsolved slayings of young women there this summer.

A police spokesman, however, added that there is "little or any physical evidence that links the crimes here with the crimes there. The only interest is on a chance that they may relate."

The spokesman said "there are other people they (police) think are in some way involved in this" slaying of seven.

He declined elaboration, but added police "believe more information is available in Washington (Ann Arbor) County and southeastern Michigan, then emphasized more than $40,000 in rewards are outstanding for informants.

Clues Sought

The latter emphasis apparently was made in hopes of attracting information.

Monterey County sheriff's police said Sgt. Ken Christensen and Detective Thomas Nasser were making a complete laboratory check of the trailer for possible clues.

Smith said no evidence had been developed to link the Michigan slayings with the killing of young women in Monterey County.

Among the other connections which may link the widely separated murders was the fact that

News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said today the light of public debate should be thrown on the military's war gas program and they proposed several restrictions on chemical-biological weapons.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Having completed congressional action on a six-month compromise extension of the income tax surcharge, the House today began preliminary skirmishing on the massive tax reform bill.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Northern Ireland's government vetoed demands to call British troops Monday, but several hours later Catholics and Protestants battled in Belfast for the third straight night.

U.S. Steel Rolls Back Price Hike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. rolled back part of its broad-based price increase Monday, but the big steelmaker held fast to higher rates that have now been matched by virtually all major producers on materials used in the auto and appliance industries.

The company, which triggered the current round of price increases last Wednesday, lowered posted hikes on galvanized and aluminum coated sheets from $9.50 to $4.50 a ton. The move was attributed to a failure by other producers to adopt the $9.50 increase.

Major producers followed U.S. Steel's average 4.8 per cent increase. But they settled for a $4.50 a ton increase on the galvanized items, which account for about five per cent of the industry's shipments.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. was the only producer to adopt the $9.50 increase for galvanized, but it adjusted the price shortly after U.S. Steel's announcement Monday.

U.S. Steel's price on the flat-rolled products, which account for nearly half of the industry's total shipments, has met resistance from General Motors, a top customer.

The automaker's Fisher Body Division last week advised U.S. Steel to hold back on shipments "pending a re-evaluation of the competitive situation with respect to steel prices."

Observers say General Motors was apparently waiting to see if other producers would reject U.S. Steel's increases and post lower prices on sheet products.

But the pattern was completed Monday when Republic, Jones & Laughlin, National and Wheeling-Pittsburgh matched U.S. Steel's increases on hot and cold-rolled lines.

Bethlehem, Armo, Inland and Sharon Steel increased their prices late last week.

Credit Doctors With Saving Wounded Arm

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Three U.S. prisoners of war boarded an International Control Commission plane in Hanoi today and headed for Vientiane, U.S. officials reported. The three were released Monday.

The prisoners were identified as Capt. Wesley Lewis Rumble, 26, an Air Force pilot from Oroville, Calif.; Lt. Robert Franchot Frishman, 29, a Navy pilot from Santee, Calif., and Douglas Heggahl, a seaman apprentice from Watertown, S. D.

The three were turned over to an American pacifist group in Hanoi, and a broadcast from the North Vietnamese said that at the ceremony they reported they were well treated.

Saved Arm

Hanoi radio quoted Frishman as saying North Vietnamese surgeons saved his right arm when he was wounded and captured northwest of Hanoi Oct. 24, 1967.

"I would like to take this opportunity to tell you how happy I am to be released and to be able to return home and see my wife again," Frishman was quoted as saying.

"When I was shot down I had a very seriously wounded arm. It came at a time when targets in the Hanoi area were being hit. The doctors were very busy giving medical care to their own people and it would have been much easier for them just to amputate. Yet they took the time to operate, remove my shattered elbow and save my arm, and for this I am thankful."

Bailed Out

Frishman, said the broadcast, added: "I wish the war to come to an end soon so that the Vietnamese may be allowed to live in peace and happiness."

Rumble told how he was captured in the southern part of North Vietnam April 28, 1968. "When my plane was hit, I had to bail out," the Hanoi radio quoted him. "As I was descending in my parachute I was quite worried and fearful about the treatment I might receive while captured. But a few minutes after I was captured, my fears were eased."

"I was treated in a very kind manner. It increased my feelings for the Vietnamese people quite a bit."

According to the broadcast, Rumble saw his release as "a day I thought never would happen," and after expressing thanks for his treatment was quoted as adding: "I hope and I pray that this war is soon over so that the Vietnamese people may be allowed to live in peace and happiness."

"Humanitarian" Gesture

Heggahl said he fell into the sea from the cruiser Canberra off the coast of North Vietnam the night of April 5, 1967. The Hanoi broadcast quoted him:

"After about five hours of swimming I had almost given up hope when I saw a North Vietnam fishing boat. They picked me up and gave me good treatment even though they knew I was from a ship that had been shelling their coast."

"Since then I have been living in a camp of detention for captured American pilots. I have received adequate food, clothing and hygiene since I was captured and they even provided me with a pair of spectacles to see better with. For this I am very grateful."

North Vietnam had announced that it was releasing the three as a "humanitarian gesture" and in recognition of the American Independence Day. They are the first U.S. prisoners in North Vietnam to be released since three were freed Aug. 2 last year.

U.S. officials have repeatedly complained of North Vietnamese treatment of prisoners. They charge Hanoi has ignored the 1954 Geneva conference on treatment of war prisoners by refusing to list the names of those held captive and refusing to repatriate seriously ill or wounded.

Channel 3 TV Service Begins Soon: Southard

The erection of a 1,257-foot TV transmitter tower to serve the central Upper Peninsula region as "Escanaba's Channel 3" will begin near Trenary next week and "we hope that service will begin by early September," a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs was told at Marco's Monday noon.

Speaking were Robert Southard, vice president and general manager of WFRV-TV, Green Bay, and Fred Wagner, meteorologist and staff member.

Cobo Reserved For Decency Rally

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit area group called American Youth for Decency has deposited $1,350 to reserve Cobo Hall Sunday Sept. 28 for a Youth Decency Rally.

A 1,000-voice choir, and speeches by local celebrities are slated as part of the show, according to Loretta Lee Fry of Taylor.

Mrs. Fry, host of a radio talk show, has been planning the rally since April along with 100 other people.

The group is not connected with the Youth Decency League of Michigan, whose decency rally last June drew only 350 people.

"The group will eventually pay $3,000-$4,000 for the use of Cobo Hall for the rally."

They were introduced by Dr. William Hemes, Kiwanis program chairman, and the meeting was conducted by Arol Beck, Kiwanis Club president.

Southard said that WFRV-TV is "proud of its programming" and that it is "proud to move into the Escanaba area and become a part of this growing community."

"We are enthusiastic about Escanaba, and we believe that it has a real potential and want to be a part of it," Southard said.

On Channel 3 through the facilities of the WFRV-TV transmitter satellite tower the entire Upper Peninsula will be served, he continued. "In the Escanaba area there will be a perfect signal even on a portable TV set," Southard reported.

Initially Channel 3 (WJMN-TV) will rebroadcast in total the Channel 5 programming from Green Bay; and as the service is developed there eventually will be a local origination of programs, he said. Meanwhile there will be expanded news coverage for the Upper Peninsula.

Meteorologist Wanger's report concerned the weather condition and forecasting information offered by WFRV-TV, enlivened with anecdotes and incidents related to his work as staff weatherman.

Entertainer Picks President's Party

HONOLULU (AP) — Entertainer Don Ho has been invited to two parties Aug. 13, his 39th birthday. It didn't take him long to decide which one to attend.

He'll be among the 1,500 guests at President Nixon's state dinner in Los Angeles in honor of the Apollo 11 astronauts.

Kimo McVay, owner of the Waikiki night club where Ho is appearing, said a gala birthday party had been planned here the same day.

In fact, said McVay, "The Washington invitation arrived just as I was preparing to mail out thousands of engraved invitations of my own."

Ho's local birthday party will be advanced a day.

Academy Prepares Street People

DETROIT (AP) — There is a school in Detroit's inner city that bears a name representing the scars of racial war. It is the Twelfth St. Academy.

Sponsored by the Urban League, which is usually associated with quiet conferences and not restless young street people, the academy seeks to get 16-to-20 year olds who have been turned off by schools back into a system that includes some education.

The academy has only one teacher where once it had five, trying to prepare students for passing the General Education (GED) test, the equivalent of a high school diploma.

Of the 150 who used the academy, only about 40 were students. Most of the group was attracted by the two men who run the place on very personal terms, Garvin Stone and Bill Howard.

The academy also conducts a group called the Community Patrol, unarmed uniformed and bereted young men who seek to be a force for order in the community.

"This corps is to be highly disciplined and well mannered," Howard told the group when it was reactivated last week after the strike. "When somebody sees you on the street, you're going to be proud."

Along with the corps' work goes education.

"You're going to read every day and improve your vocabulary," he also told them. "Then we're going to rap, and you'd better know what you're talking about."

The final step in the academy's educational program is courses at the University of Michigan's extension service. U-M accepts the students on the understanding the academy will provide tutoring if necessary, but they may also eventually enroll for college credit.

Lazaros Can't Mention Mafia

PONTIAC (AP) — Former Mafia member Peter Lazaros Monday said he would have bribed someone if necessary to help out Joseph Barbara Jr. before Barbara allegedly raped Lazaros' wife, Delores.

Lazaros was testifying in the trial in Oakland County Circuit Court of Barbara for the rape of Mrs. Lazaros and for allegedly extorting $4,000 from her while Lazaros was in prison.

Lazaros indicated his ill will toward Barbara when, as he first took the stand, he identified Barbara as, "the thing sitting over there."

Defense attorney Ivan Barris later asked for a mistrial when Lazaros tied Barbara to the Mafia. He charged Lazaros had done so intentionally.

"This was a cool, calculated effort to prejudice this man (Barbara) in the eyes of the jury," Barris said. "He didn't have to come up with this word 'Mafia.'"

It was then noted that Judge Ziem, who was presiding, had ordered that the Mafia not be brought up. Ziem cautioned Lazaros not to mention the Mafia again and indicated he would rule on the motion for mistrial Tuesday.

Barris attempted to discredit Lazaros by charging that he made a deal with the prosecutor's office in cases in which he was involved.

Lazaros countered that two previous grand jury indictments were dropped for lack of evidence. He said he didn't know why the retrial of his fraud conviction had not been rescheduled.

Smut By Mail

Does a private citizen have the right to shut off a company sending pornographic material into his home?

The United States Supreme Court has been asked to rule on that question in a Constitutional test of a 1967 law which provides that any person who receives an advertisement he believes to be "erotically arousing" or "sexually provocative" may ask his local postmaster to direct his advertiser to stop sending the mail to him.

A decision on the question will be an important one in the country, because some of the material mailed to unsuspecting households is pretty bold. The advertisers aren't limiting their ads to the suggestive descriptions published in "men's magazines" found on most newsstands these days.

Challenges to the law have been posted by a group of mailers who traffic in "adult" books, magazines, films and sex paraphernalia, the Associated Press reported. The law took effect April 15, 1968, and since then the Post Office has directed some 10,000 orders to mailers to knock people off their lists, including some from Escanaba.

Escanaba Postmaster James (Bud) Pryal said that pandering advertisements are a problem in the area, although he concedes that it might not be as severe as in other areas.

"We've had a lot of complaints," he said. "There's no set pattern to the material," he continued. "Some of it comes directed solely to business places on Ludington St. Other times it goes to residences."

Pryal said the mailings seem to come in bunches — that is, there may be a sack full of the advertising one day and then nothing for a month or so. Most of the material comes out of California under first class postage and Pryal said that even if postal officials suspect what an envelope contains inspectors have no authority to open it or hold it from delivery.

The only way presently for residents to protest delivery of obscene mail to their businesses or homes is to contact the postmaster. Then, under the 1967 law, he can direct the company to have a person's name removed from a firm's mailing list.

Unfortunately, more than one firm is in the pornographic business and removal of a person's name or address from one mailing list is no guarantee that such material will never find its way into his mailbox again.

Now comes the challenge to the law that could take even that small bit of protection away from the American public.

Some people, of course, actually desire to receive pornographic material. The fact that firms dealing in smut do millions of dollars in business each year proves there is a strong market for sex in the United States and the Supreme Court has ruled that persons may possess such material for private use.

But although some people may desire smut, not everybody does and a ruling by the Supreme Court knocking out the 1967 law could open the mails to an unprecedented flood of pornography into homes on the same scale as other commercial advertising now moves. A ruling favorable to the mailers also probably would impede legislation which would permit a citizen to move against an advertiser even before the citizen receives any "objectionable" material.

The Supreme Court will have to be careful in its deliberations because of the questions of censorship. What is "objectionable" to some is not objectionable to others.

But while the Court is considering the rights of the mailers, it must also consider the rights of the public and nobody should be subjected to smut against his will.

The Campus Lesson

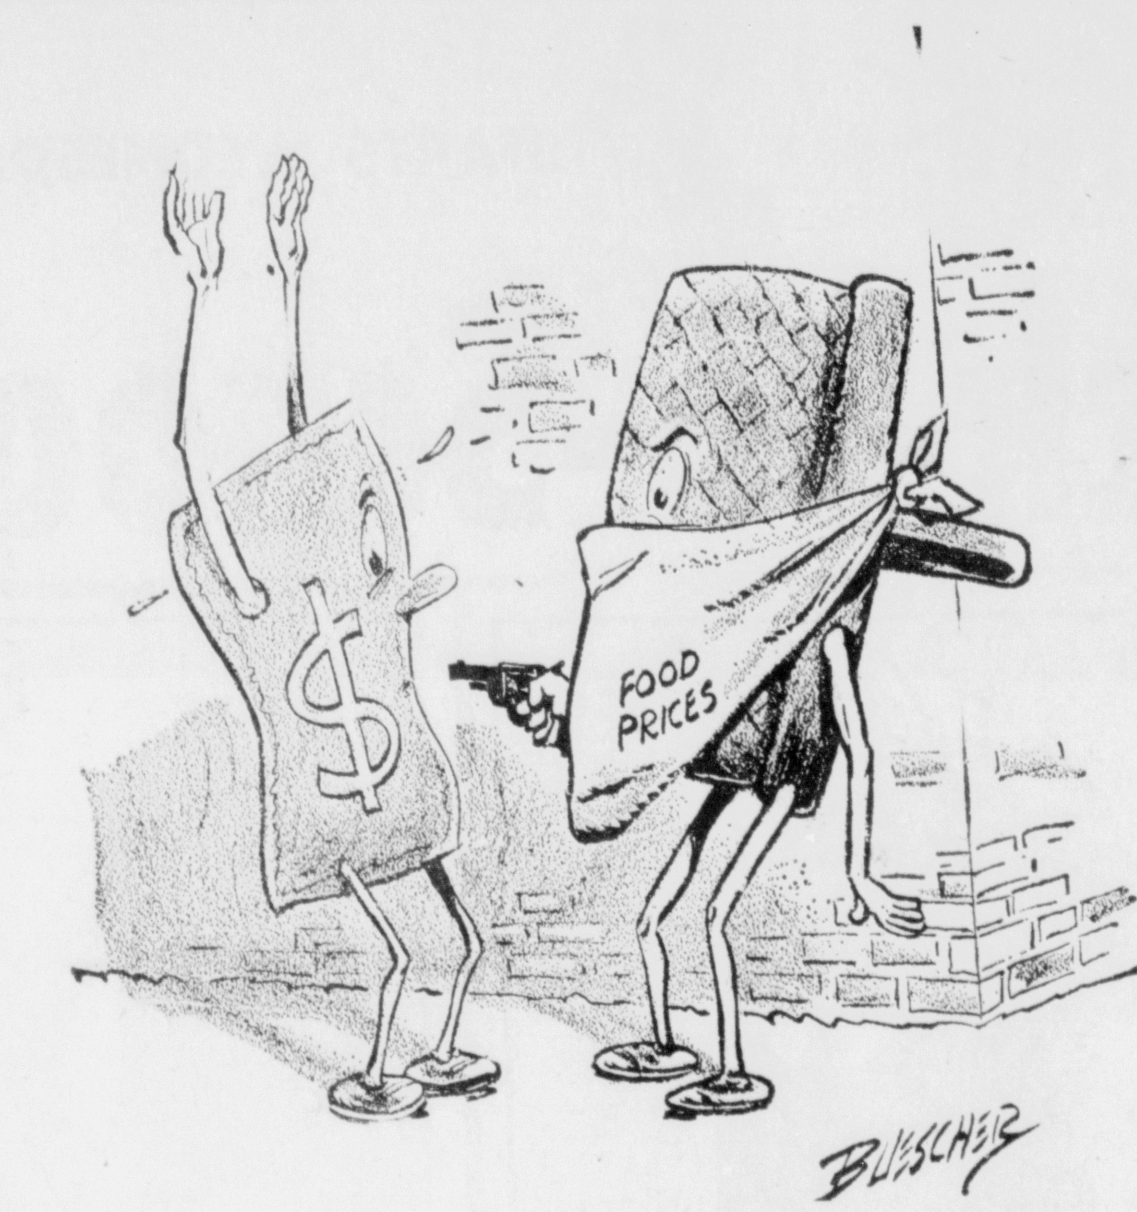

Recent turmoil on the nation's campuses is providing students an unplanned lesson: If you can't get the ear of the administration through peaceful means, riot and the officials will capitulate to the most outrageous demands.

The tendency has been to blame the students themselves for the trouble, and they deserve a major part of the criticism. But the administrations have, in effect, created the climate for disruption, in some part, by refusing to acknowledge the problems of students who try to go through channels.

The plight of law abiding students at Harvard is probably typical. As a graduate student told Senate investigators: "The main problem at Harvard is not SDS (Students for a Democratic Society). The main problem is the Harvard administration and faculty; their leniency, their blindness and their cowardice." The student noted that violence before this past spring's outbreak had been condoned by President Nathan Pusey as political in nature and therefore justifiable. Pusey refused to punish student radicals who mobbed the car of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara after he spoke on campus in 1966. Other disturbances followed.

The president of student government before the spring riot asked for 30 minutes of Pusey's time each month to discuss student problems. Pusey refused even when he reduced his request to 15 minutes. The administration, however, did find time, under humiliating conditions, to listen to the troublemakers who demanded and obtained a voice on all faculty committees. Peaceful students had not been able to get a representative even on one such committee.

The point is, as the graduate student at Harvard put it: "Again and again we are taught at Harvard that if you want to be heard, you must be rude, aggressive and pushy and that if you want changes made, it is best to use force." That is the lesson and it bodes ill for society that youngsters are coming out of our universities with that opinion.

The Coming Cycle Of Republicanism

By JOHN CHAMBERLIN
Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare Bob Finch was one Republican officeholder who sent for Kevin Phillips' challenging new book, "The Emerging Republican Majority," which has Washington buzzing. And the liberal Republican Ripon Society, so the publishers at Arlington House in New Rochelle, N.Y., tell me, was right in line for one of the earliest copies.

Finch and the Riponites and a handful of northeastern Republican Senators (Brooke of Massachusetts, Goodell and Javits of New York, Saxton of Ohio, Case of New Jersey are among them) are right to scent extreme danger or at least provocation to themselves in the thesis of Phillips' book. For if Phillips is right in his "socio-cultural analysis" of voting patterns, the seat of a triumphant Republicanism has trended away from the old Yankee and silk-stocking strongholds of the Northeast.

The future of the Republican Party, says Phillips, rests on the "outer South" (which the choice of Agnew for Vice President held in line for Nixon), the growing suburban populations of the "Sun Belt" (Florida, Texas, Arizona, California), the "ethnic groups" which have risen from the ghetto to home ownership (Italians, Irish, Germans, Poles), the plains-and-mountains "Heartland" and — assuming George Wallace can't hold his local magic — the "contingent South" that went for Goldwater in 1964. To be perfectly hardboiled about it, people of the "emerging Republican majority" think of themselves as the more competent members of society and want to hang on to what they have achieved, often with hardship and risk. They don't want to see everything go to an ill-considered and graft-ridden "welfare."

"Finch's crowd" in the Administration, the liberal Riponites, and the Javits-Goodell type of Senator tend to doubt the lasting quality of the newly-emergent Nixon coalition which Phillips thinks is good for a 30-year cycle.

They argue that an "age overlay" will soon rise to confound Phillips' "socio-cultural" and geographic patterns. The "liberal young," empathizing with the blacks in the ghettos and the academic intelligentsia, are supposedly disillusioned with affluence. The riotous scenes in the colleges are said to bespeak a new radicalism which won't be compatible with anything we have known as Republicanism. When the "baby boom crop" that was born in the years 1945-60 begins to vote heavily, the Democrats will return to Washington unless the Republicans do something to win the allegiance of the young.

That will be the burden of the Finch-Ripon attack on the Phillips thesis. But Phillips' own figures tend to undercut the "age overlay" argument.

"Youth is important," says Phillips, "but voters under 25 cast only 7.4 per cent of the nation's ballots in 1968. And while many Northeastern young people are more liberal and Democratic than their parents — especially the affluent and anarchic progeny of the Establishment — the reverse seems to be true in Southern, Border, Rocky Mountain, Catholic, lower middle class, and working-class areas. In these locales, the young electorate's trend against local political tradition helps the GOP, as does the byline nihilism of the children of the affluent society."

Phillips works for Attorney General John Mitchell, who ran the Nixon 1968 campaign and won by taking due note of Phillips' trend analyses. Unless Bob Finch and the Riponites can do some fast talking, it is likely that President Nixon will edge more and more towards complete acceptance of the Phillips thesis. The symbolism

State Training Own Draftsmen

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department — out hunting for draftsmen — had little luck in finding people to fill 42 vacancies in the Lansing office.

So the department decided to train its own.

Seventeen recent high school graduates, including three women, now are learning about highway and bridge drafting in a department school that began early last month.

The young people had some education in school, but no experience.

"They're hired as beginning draftsmen and after completion of the four to five-week course, they'll be assigned to either a road or bridge squad," says Fred Rieger, chairman of the department design division education committee and training coordinator for the program.

The department says a major advantage to training draftsmen this way is that their squad leaders will not have to do the training work.

"Before it took several months to teach them the techniques and terms," Rieger says, "but now all they'll need is experience."

A disadvantage, the department admits, is that there is no production while the students are being trained.

Marvin Church, a professor of engineering technology for 6½ years at the Lansing Community College, teaches the highway department drafting "school."

Church begins each day with a lettering practice for his students. The remainder of the eight-hour day is spent doing drafting problems, listening to Church lecture and usually taking a quiz after lunch.

Cadillac Attempts To Get Statue

CADILLAC (AP) — A campaign to bring the statue of the Marquis Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac here from his resting place in a dusty Detroit store-room is underway again. At one time, Detroit city officials said they were willing to give the statue to Cadillac but then changed their minds.

Now, Ed Getzen, chairman of a committee trying to bring the statue to Cadillac, has written Detroit Common Council saying Cadillac will bring the statue here at its own expense, build a pedestal for it and promise not to paint it "a hideous color." "We sincerely believe that this work of art would be more appreciated overlooking beautiful Lake Cadillac than viewing the Detroit River," Getzen said.

of politics would indicate that Mr. Nixon has already made his choice.

The President has bought new homes in Florida and California — the "Sun Belt" and transferred his voting residence from New York to Florida's Dade County. In a generation the four Sun Belt states will outvote the Northeast. Finch, a Californian, will have to find numerous young liberals in his home state to offset the fact that Reagan men still go on winning in California local races. Mayor Yorty won in Los Angeles as a conservative. Berkeley in northern California gets the headlines, but Orange County in the south has the votes.

The Democrats, stuck with the declining populations of the big Northeastern cities, have accepted their regional fate: they fired Louisiana's Russell Long as their Whip in the Senate and replaced him with Massachusetts' Ted Kennedy. Now Teddy is in trouble. More symbolism.

A tip: watch for future changes in political allegiance, with Mayor John Lindsay of New York City perhaps becoming a Democrat and Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia becoming a Republican. Stranger things will happen if "Nixon luck" holds and the "Phillips cycle" deepens.

It was obvious from East's play of the king of hearts that South had the A-Q, possibly the A-Q-J. It was also obvious from South's diamond lead at trick two that he had the ace. And it was likewise highly probable from the bidding that declarer had the ace of spades. It followed that South could not also have the ace of clubs or he would have bid more strongly, and the attack on declarer's obvious weak spot, clubs, consequently offered the only real chance to beat the contract.

No Need To Push Panic Button Yet

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Are you on or off your rocker?

We live in such unreal times that it is difficult for us to be sure whether we're batting .500 or simply have bats in our belfry, whether we are safe and sane or out of this world and hiding in a self-made Babel.

There is no need to push the panic button over the problem, however. There are simple, easy ways to test your own normality or abnormality quotient.

For example, just answer the following questions:

When you go fishing, do most of the other fellows in the boat catch more fish than you do?

As you wait in line in a bank to cash a check, can you feel the uniformed guard's eyes staring at you suspiciously?

After 10 or more years of marriage, is it beginning to dawn on you that in most things your wife is probably smarter than you are?

Point Breaks

But would you rather be drawn and quartered by four wild horses than admit this to anybody?

Does it annoy you when you sharpen pencils because the points seem to break off more easily than they did in the old days?

As a matter of fact, most of Opening lead—two of hearts. Some of the fine plays on defense that you read about might cause you to suspect that one or both defenders had seen all four hands. It is certainly true that we would all defend better seeing all 52 cards, but the fact is that in most deals you are literally expected to play just as effectively as though everyone's cards were exposed.

Here is a typical case from a match that was played on Bridge-O-Rama before a large audience. Faced with a difficult opening lead, West chose the deuce of hearts even though South had bid that suit. Declarer won East's king with the ace and at trick two led a low diamond towards dummy. Right at this point, even before West had played, the Bridge-O-Rama commentator, who together with the audience could see all four hands on the screen, said: "If West takes the king and returns the jack of clubs, South will go down one."

These words were hardly out of the commentator's mouth when West went up with the king of diamonds and returned the jack of clubs. South promptly lost a diamond and four clubs in succession, and there was nothing he could do to prevent this from happening. Actually, the jack of clubs lead was not as miraculous a play as it appears to be. Far from being a shot in the dark, the club shift was very well reasoned.

It was obvious from East's play of the king of hearts that South had the A-Q, possibly the A-Q-J. It was also obvious from South's diamond lead at trick two that he had the ace. And it was likewise highly probable from the bidding that declarer had the ace of spades. It followed that South could not also have the ace of clubs or he would have bid more strongly, and the attack on declarer's obvious weak spot, clubs, consequently offered the only real chance to beat the contract.

When the alarm clock rings each morning, do you automatically groan over the problems the day may bring?

Normal As Suds

Is Monday your worst enemy and Friday your best friend? As you walk down the street, are you occasionally made uneasy by the creepy sensation that something or somebody is following you?

Are you convinced that you are overworked, and the young bucks at your office overpaid? Even the office boy is secretly trying to get your job, isn't he?

Do you feel that if the inflation gets any worse everybody in America will wind up in the poor house?

Well, those are the questions. Now to the results.

If you answered "no" to all of them, you're in a state of psychotic euphoria. You need half a dozen psychiatrists, not just one.

But if in every case you gave "yes" for an answer, you're as normal as suds on a glass of beer.

You are probably just getting older and tired and what you need, instead of a psychiatrist, is a good long vacation.

Ann Landers

Divorce Isn't Final; What She Can Do?

Dear Ann Landers: I need your cool, detached counsel. My husband gets home from work about 4:30 P. M. I get home about 5:30. For the past several weeks I've had the peculiar feeling that somebody had been in the house—ash trays in odd places, a sofa pillow mashed out of shape, bedspread wrinkled, too many towels hanging up to dry. One day I checked the garbage and found cigar butts with lipstick. (I don't smoke.) I knew then that my husband had been entertaining a female in my absence.

Yesterday I decided to leave work half an hour early and meet the guest face to face. My timing was beautiful. I caught them right in the act. I've never seen two more surprised people in my entire life. But I was surprised, too, because the woman turned out to be a neighbor who is the town tramp.

I have decided to forgive my husband because I'm sure she chased him and wore him down, as she has done with so many others. But I'm not willing to let her off so lightly. The question: Can I take legal action against the woman for breaking and entering? If not, what other legal steps can I take?—Wronged

Dear Wronged: The woman did not break into your home. She was a guest. The only legal steps you can take are against HIM. My advice is to forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl who has a summer job at the Fairground. It is very interesting because I get to talk to all kinds of people, but I do have one small problem.

Please tell me what to say to older men (about 40) who don't exactly get fresh but start to tell you about their personal life which is nobody's business. For example, yesterday a man came over and began to discuss the weather. All of a sudden he blurted out, "My wife and I have separate bedrooms because we like different mattresses. I like a soft mattress and she likes a hard one."

Please give me a sentence or two that I can use to change the subject tactfully. Thank you.—Molly

Dear Molly: You don't need to be tactful with a clod like that. He wouldn't notice. Just say, "I'm not interested in your mattress. Shove off."

Dear Ann Landers: I had my divorce hearing about two months ago but it won't be final for a year. What is my role during this year? Am I still married? Can I date? Should I wear my wedding ring? Everyone I talk to has a different opinion but no one can give me the final word.

Do you have it?—Neither Fish Nor Fowl

Dear Neither: The answers are not engraved on the Rosetta stone. There is no "final word"—only opinions. If you want mine, here it is: While waiting for your divorce to become final you can date if you wish. By date, I mean enjoy the company of men, but be a loose hanger. No playing house, no cozy alliances and no weekend trips.

As for your wedding ring, it has no significance now, so why wear it?

Paper Mill Project Brings Area A Problem

By JEAN WORTH
Of Panax Newspapers

Escanaba's great good news of industrial construction boom has brought it a community problem.

State legislators held a public hearing on a complaint that Rust Engineering Co., had employed Canadian workmen instead of Americans on construction of the mill addition for Escanaba Paper Co.

The legislators said privately that they were satisfied by the hearing in Escanaba July 3 that there was no discrimination, but they issued no public report.

On Monday, Congressman Philip Ruppe announced that he was asking the U. S. Department of Labor to investigate complaints that American electricians were laid off on the Escanaba Paper Co., construction project by Rust and replaced by Canadian journeymen.

Rust spokesmen declined official comment on the situation, except to say that they had conferred officially with State Legislators Charles Varnum (R-Manistique), Dominic Jacobetti (D-Negaunee), Russell Hellman (D-Dollar Bay), and Robert Payant (R-Iron Mountain) in Escanaba at their request and explained the entire situation on July 3 and received an apparent acceptance of the explanation, but that the net result had been that public emotionism had been aroused which had been harmful to Rust, to the Escanaba Paper Co., mill project and to Local 979 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Animosities Created

An inquiry into the situation reveals that a community animosity has been created by the incident which has been harmful to the mill project, troublesome to Rust (employing 1,000 construction workers on one of the largest construction projects in the history of the Escanaba area) and challenging to Escanaba's tradition of fair play.

The Canadian workers imported to fill the gap that could not be filled by skilled American workers in the mill project have received unfriendly treatment in Escanaba — it has even been described as "persecution" by some observers — and many of them have returned to their Canadian homes with a poor impression of Escanaba and of the United States.

They left a gap which may solve the complaints about jobs for Americans, but which could threaten completion of the mill project on schedule. (The No. 3 paper machine at the Mead mill is scheduled for start-up this fall.)

Reaction Intensified

Public reaction has been intensified by the legislative inquiry and lack of report on its findings.

The situation, as determined from official sources, is this: 1. Before any Canadian electricians were permitted to work on the project, approval was needed from the Michigan Employment Security Commission, the U. S. Bureau of Naturalization and Immigration and the U. S. Department of Labor. All of these agencies are dedicated to the protection of American workmen. All of them approved the entry of enough Canadian electricians to fill the gaps in the Rust work force on the Escanaba Paper

Co., project which could not be filled by Escanaba Area electricians. All the requirements they posted were met by Rust, which had been unable to fill its need for electricians on the mill project.

2. Fewer than 50 Canadian electricians are now working on the Escanaba job and more than 200 American electricians. The presence of these Canadians is described as "necessary" for timely completion of the project. They are skilled electrical journeymen with four years of experience who fill the needs in the current phase of the mill construction project, which calls for highly skilled electricians.

3. Categorically, works officials state: "No American has been replaced by a Canadian!"

4. The last Canadian was hired on June 9, 1969, and in this period the peak electrical manpower was recorded. In mid-June the project experienced an excess of electrical manpower and released approximately 24 workmen who had been hired as temporary, unskilled electrical workers.

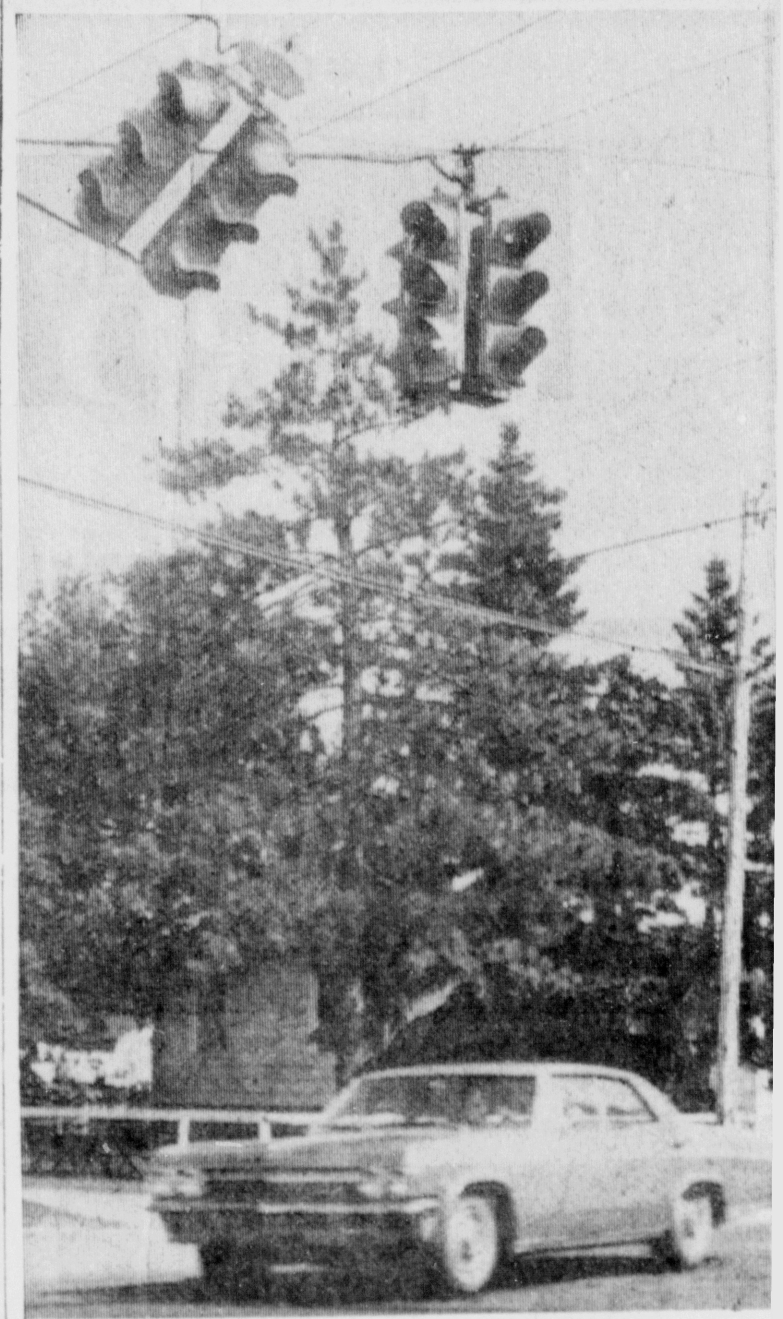

5. In July, a large number of electrical journeymen quit the Rust Engineering project for other employment. About 10 of the workmen previously released in June were rehired to fill the void created.

6. Normal hiring procedure on large construction jobs like this one is to go to neighboring states when the local union cannot supply enough journeymen workers. There were no available journeymen electricians in neighboring states for the Escanaba project so Rust, with the cooperation of Local 979, the MESC, the Bureau of Immigration and the U. S. Department of Labor, went to Canada and hired Canadian electricians, who are all members of the same union, the IBEW. Rust and other large construction firms do not ordinarily hire unskilled electricians on a temporary basis on such projects, but it was done here to fill out the electrical work force in the labor pinch. The practice resulted in more local employment than would otherwise have taken place, but it also brought on the complaints of released temporary workers that have been taken up by Lansing and Washington.

7. Of the 105 Canadians hired as electricians, fewer than 50 are left on the job. Unfriendly treatment in Escanaba has been a factor in some departures. If all were to leave, a serious lack of skilled electricians would imperil timely completion of the job.

The problem arose, said works managers, when highly skilled Canadian workers were retained and some unskilled temporary American workers were released.

TWO TRAFFIC LIGHTS may have started but didn't confuse motorists at this intersection on Washington Ave. at the Webster School crossing Monday. It was a temporary situation as the old light was removed and a new one was swung into place. City electric department workmen will repair it and have it ready for a replacement. (Daily Press Photo)

U. S. Navy Plane Lost; 16 Aboard

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The Argentine and Chilean air forces launch a search today for a missing U.S. Navy C47 believed lost with 16 persons aboard in a heavy snowstorm in the Andes.

The rescue center at Buenos Aires International Airport said an unidentified radio amateur had sent a message reporting that the plane had been located between Curico and Talca, in the Andes area. But the center said the report had not been confirmed.

The U.S. Embassy withheld all information on the identity of those aboard the plane.

The C47 took off Monday afternoon from Santiago on a flight to Buenos Aires. It was due in the Argentine capital at 11 p.m. EDT and had only enough fuel to last until midnight, the Argentine Air Force said.

Politics Shades Missile Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tinge of politics is shading the waning hours of the Senate's missile defense debate, but a Democratic champion of the Safeguard system says he can't see it as a future campaign issue.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he does not believe a political campaigner would be successful in raising it as an issue against President Nixon.

"When you have a subject before the Senate based on hte concept of defending yourself," Jackson said in an interview, "I can't for the life of me see how that's going to hurt the person who is advocating it."

Sen. George S. McGovern, R-S.D., told the Senate Monday Safeguard could prove a major political liability to the Republican President. He said deployment would feed the arms race and lead to increasing neglect of problems at home.

"And the administration will have to face the electorate encumbered by a costly blunder, just as the previous administration had to face the people encumbered by Vietnam," said McGovern, considered a possible contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

FBI Enters Coed Probe As Search Moves Westward

Michigan State Police Director Frederick Davids said Collins and Manuel were believed to have rented the trailer in mid-June.

The larceny charge was issued because the trailer was never returned.

Motorcycle
Carlson said his discussion with the state policeman took place as he sought to recover his motorcycle which, he said, was taken to the investigation center established last week for the several agencies participating.

He said his motorcycle was stolen while he was away from his apartment for about three hours one night.

"It makes me wonder," he said, "My wife's bedroom was five feet away from the bike." There were reports that three other motorcycles recovered in the garage behind Collins' rooming house, were also stolen. Police are believed to have recovered other stolen items at the house near the Eastern Michigan campus. Manuel rented a room there until mid-June.

Authorities declined to answer questions that Manuel might be involved in the slayings also.

In the Canadian province of Ontario, authorities compared notes with Michigan police on some unsolved sex slayings in the London area. At Ypsilanti a spokesman would say only that no evidence now links the slayings, but that a possible connection is not being ruled out.

Anonymous Tip

Police received an anonymous tip this week pointing out similarities in the Canadian and American killings and suggesting that something might be gained by a visit to a cabin northeast of Windsor, Ont. that is owned by Collins' uncle. A spokesman said no strong evidence was uncovered, however.

Collins was born in Windsor, Ont. His father apparently abandoned the family, police said. Later, Collins' mother married again and the boy took his stepfather's surname.

"He told me he has never known his real father," Sheriff Harvey said, adding that his mother, a Detroit waitress, has visited him in the jail several times.

Curfew Ordered After Firebombs

PASSAIC, N.J. (AP) — A nighttime curfew was ordered today after a second night of firebombing and looting ravaged a predominantly Puerto Rican neighborhood here.

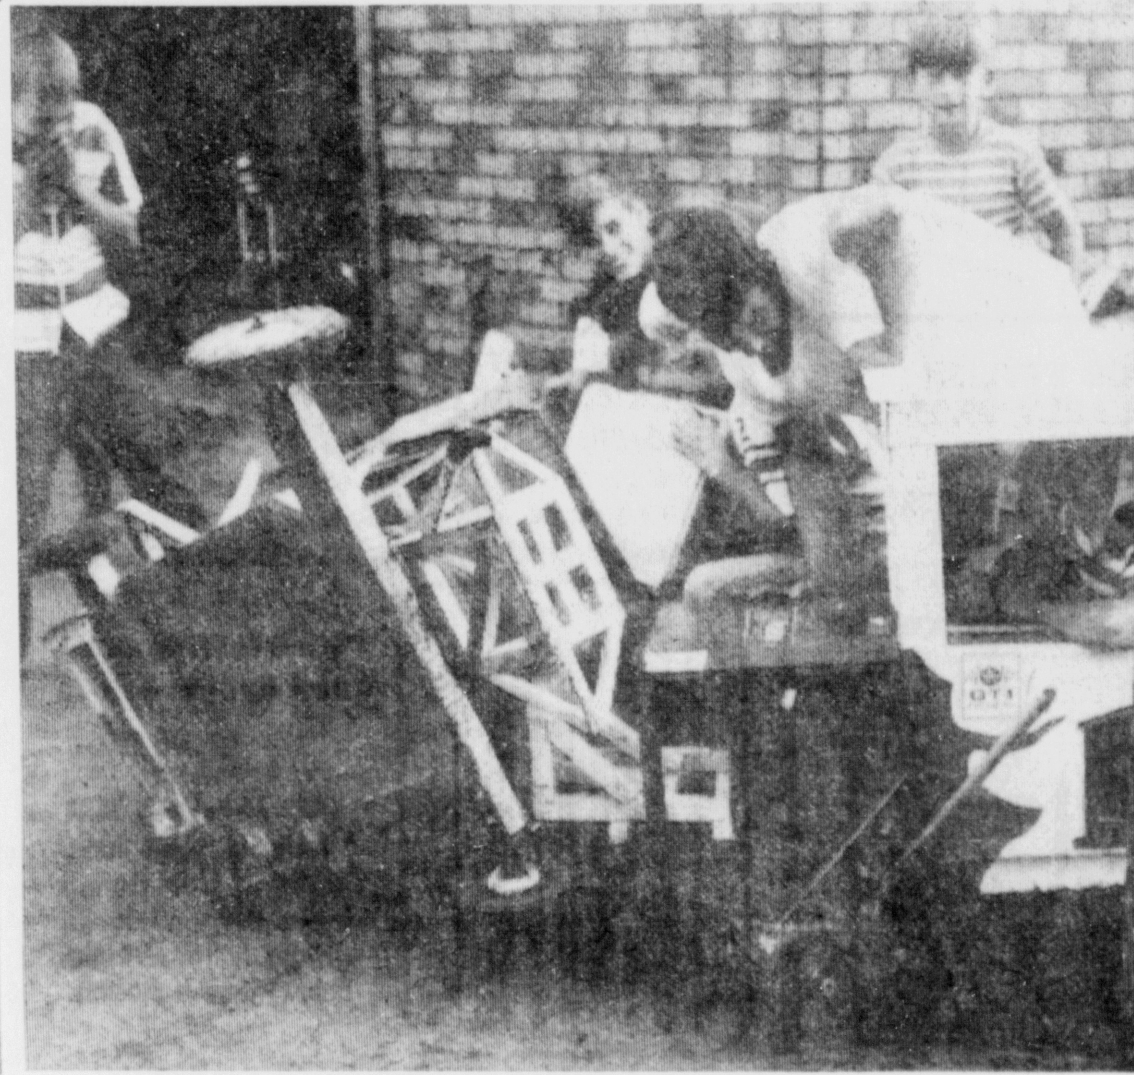

Police reported one instance of shooting and said about 1,000 persons gathered in one small area at the peak of the disorders Monday. Sixteen persons were arrested.

Police sealed off the tenement section bordering the main downtown business district and fired tear gas before heavy rains cleared streets. Mayor Bernard Pinck imposed a curfew to start at 9:30 p.m., closed taverns and banned sales of gasoline in containers.

Three buildings were hit by firebombs. One scorched the roof of City Hall, across the main business street from the Puerto Rican area. Another burned out a two-story office building and two others burned displays in a furniture store owned by City Clerk Anthony Martini.

Stores with Puerto Rican or Spanish names were carefully exempted, while shops adjacent were stripped.

North Central Jets Start Here Oct. 26

Jet air passenger service will be inaugurated by North Central Airlines on Oct. 26, the City of Escanaba has been assured.

David E. Moran, North Central vice president traffic and sales, has advised City Manager George Harvey:

"Effective with our Oct. 26 schedule we will be serving Escanaba with 100 passenger DC-9 equipment.

"Our evening flight from Detroit, with connections from Chicago, will arrive in Escanaba at 9:37 p.m. and terminate in Marquette at 10:08 p.m.

"The equipment used in this flight will originate in Marquette at 8:10 a.m. and operate through Escanaba at 8:42 a.m. to Detroit with connections to Chicago."

The letter from Moran was in answer to an inquiry by Harvey on behalf of the City Council in seeking an overnight stop in Escanaba for a North Central plane.

The question came up at a recent Council session and the city manager was asked to inform North Central of the city's interest in having a terminating flight here, as was once the schedule.

"Moran in his reply said that although North Central appreciates "the opportunity to review this situation with you." "In view of the number of seats available on these two flights (DC-9 equipment) and the times which they operate through Escanaba, there would be no apparent need for additional service."

The development of the Escanaba municipal airport to keep in advance of the growing traffic demands includes a new terminal building and extension of runways.

The terminal is completed and was opened for use a few days ago, while other work is rapidly being accomplished.

The dedication of the expanded airport is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 30, with a week-end program including the appearance of The Thunderbirds—precision flying team—and other outstanding events.

Escanaba's airport is, from the standpoint of increase in passenger volume, the fastest-growing in the Upper Peninsula.

Armstrong Is 39 Years Old

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Moon explorer Neil A. Armstrong celebrates his 39th birthday today with his 18 quarantine pals and only 26 candles for his cake.

Armstrong and his Apollo 11 colleagues Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins were in their 16th day of isolation intended to keep possible lunar bugs from getting loose on earth. All remained in excellent health.

If no illnesses turn up or no dangerous organisms appear in the rocks the astronauts brought home, they'll be returned to the outer world next Monday. With them are 16 other persons—doctors, technicians, a cook and two rock researchers accidentally exposed to moon dust.

The cook, Jesse Stewart, said he would bake "a regular cake" starting from scratch. He said he wouldn't use a cake mix because "then it would be somebody else's cake." It will be vanilla with vanilla icing. Stewart reported a thorough search of the quarantine quarters turned up only 26 candles.

In another part of the building, scientists and geologists found black silt and a few moon chunks splashed with colorful crystals when they opened the second, and last, box of lunar surface material gathered by Armstrong and Aldrin during their moon stay.

The box contained small rocks, ranging from gravel to orange-size. They were covered with the same powdery black moon dust found in the first box, opened more than a week ago. Dr. Jeff Warner, one of the geologists observing the box opening, said white, pink and grayish-brown crystals were scattered over the surfaces of several of the rocks, which appeared to be rather soft.

Warner reported those studying the moon material have differences of opinion on the findings to date and emphasized that months of research will be needed to draw definite conclusions.

Proposed Rebuilding Of U.S. 2 Detailed

By BOB GREGG
RAPID RIVER — The Highway Department conducted a public hearing Monday evening in Rapid River to discuss the proposed reconstruction of U.S. 2 from 4.4 miles east of Rapid River to a point just east of the Sturgeon River.

Over 75 persons attended the meeting. Most of them are property owners along the highway right-of-way.

The purpose of the meeting was to provide public reconstruction which will result in making U.S. 2 a 24-foot, two-lane facility with 10 foot shoulders.

The state wants to acquire a uniform 150 foot free access right-of-way on each side of the road so that the highway can be made safer for the motorist.

G. Robert Adams, public hearings officer for the Highway Department, began the meeting by describing the reasons for the reconstruction.

Adams said that U.S. 2 was the major highway serving the lower Upper Peninsula from Sault Ste. Marie to Ironwood, and because of the large increase in traffic on the highway the state felt that the roadway should be aligned better, making it safer and easier to travel.

To Straighten Route

"The main reason for reconstruction will be to straighten out the roadway for safety purposes," Stephen Kessler, route location engineer, told me.

"We are designing the new roadway to adapt it for a 65 mph speed limit. Right now it is unsafe at high speeds," Kessler explained.

The total cost of the reconstruction is estimated at $2.51 million. Project costs will be shared on a 50-50 basis from both state and federal funds.

Procedure Explained

Adams told the owners that the Highway Department would start negotiations with them on April 1, 1970 for right-of-way acquisitions.

PROPOSED WIDENING AND RECONSTRUCTION OF U.S. 2 IN DELTA COUNTY

PROPOSED WIDENING AND RECONSTRUCTION

Joseph Molenaire, right-of-way spokesman for the Highway Department, explained in detail to the property owners just what rights and responsibilities they have.

Molenaire told the owners that the Highway Department would do its best to pay them the "fair market value" for their property.

"Fair market value" is defined as the highest price estimated in terms of money, which the property will bring if exposed to the open market.

Molenaire explained how property was purchased by the Highway Department and what advantages there are in selling to the state.

Relocation Aid

"Property owners who are removed from their residence will receive assistance in relocation and will also get a moving expense allowance," Molenaire said. He added that if owners disagreed with state appraisals they could appeal to the District Right-Of-Way Agent.

A brief intermission was held during which several project engineers from the Highway Department answered questions the owners had as to the effect the reconstruction will have on them as individuals.

Condition Deplored

After the intermission, the floor was placed open for comments from anyone who wished to make known his feelings about the reconstruction.

State Representative Charles Varnum (R - Manistique) was the only person to speak out during the public forum on U.S. 2 reconstruction.

"I'm ashamed of the condition of this road," Varnum said about U.S. 2. "We welcome this reconstruction news, but we in the Upper Peninsula do think it is a little late in coming."

Varnum told Highway Department representatives that he knew how hard pressed they are financially, but that the Upper Peninsula was in dire need of highway improvement.

"Only eight tenths of one percent of Highway Department funds have been spent this year on Upper Peninsula roads," Varnum stated. "We in the U.P. are ashamed of our roads. I don't wish to be overly critical, but the Highway Department must begin to face the fact that it is not only the residents that use U.S. 2 but the fantastic number of tourists that drive the highway year-round."

He added that he thought the Highway Department could make even more needed improvements on U.P. roads.

The meeting came to an end with Varnum saying: "Our roads are deplorable. You think of this road as U.S. 2, but if it were named in matter of condition and priority it would be called U.S. 999."

Seek Slayer Of Teen Girls

SAN JOSE — (AP) — Detectives pushed a search today for the slayer of two teen-age girls who were stabbed at least 50 times each while picnicking in a hilly wooded area near their homes.

Barton Collins, chief of San Jose detectives, said the youngsters apparently had been slain elsewhere and left at the wooded spot where they were found.

Deborah Gay Furlong, 14, and Kathy Snoozy, 15, were stabbed with a narrow-bladed knife. Neither had been sexually molested, an autopsy disclosed.

Collins called them "fine girls... two of the nicest in town."

Glen Furlong, an International Business Machines Co. engineer and Deborah's father, said the girls had left on bicycles around noon Sunday and that a search was started when they failed to appear at 6 p.m.

The father learned of the slayings when he came upon a crowd of motorists and police at a grove of trees where the girls' bodies were found Sunday night.

Police roped off the area where the fully clothed bodies were discovered and made plaster casts of footprints found nearby, but Collins refused to say whether the prints had been made by a man or a woman.

The girls had been neighbors and both attended Oakgrove High School in the suburban area of San Jose which is 50 miles south of San Francisco.

Found near the bodies was a cooler jug the girls had taken on their picnic. Their bikes were discovered chained to a fence. In their hunt, police checked every house in the neighborhood trying to find someone who had seen the youngsters.

Furlong, badly shaken by the tragedy, said he had been building a wing on his home so that Deborah and his three other children could each have a separate bedroom.

"I don't think I'll finish it," he said. "It doesn't seem to make much sense, now, does it?"

The picnic area is near a narrow trail used by motorists for hill climbing.

Girl Scouts Sue Poster Firm

NEW YORK (AP) — The Girl Scouts of America is suing a poster company for $1 million for portraying a pregnant Girl Scout alongside the motto "Be Prepared."

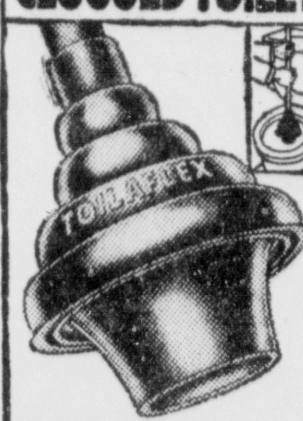

In a federal court damage suit filed Monday against Personality Posters Manufacturing Co., Inc., of New York, the Girl Scouts claimed the poster was a "wanton and malicious defamation of the scouts."

The Girl Scouts charged the full color poster of a smiling girl "in an advanced state of pregnancy, wearing the official Junior Girl Scout uniform" was "intended to impute unchastity and moral turpitude to members."

Further, the suit said, the poster was designed to destroy the association of Girl Scout aims with "truth, helpfulness, friendliness and kindred virtues among girls."

The Scouts, a 57-year-old organization of 3.7 million girls from 7 to 17, also sought an injunction against further production of the poster and confiscation of those already printed.

Lemon Pie Is a Cool Treat

By Associated Press

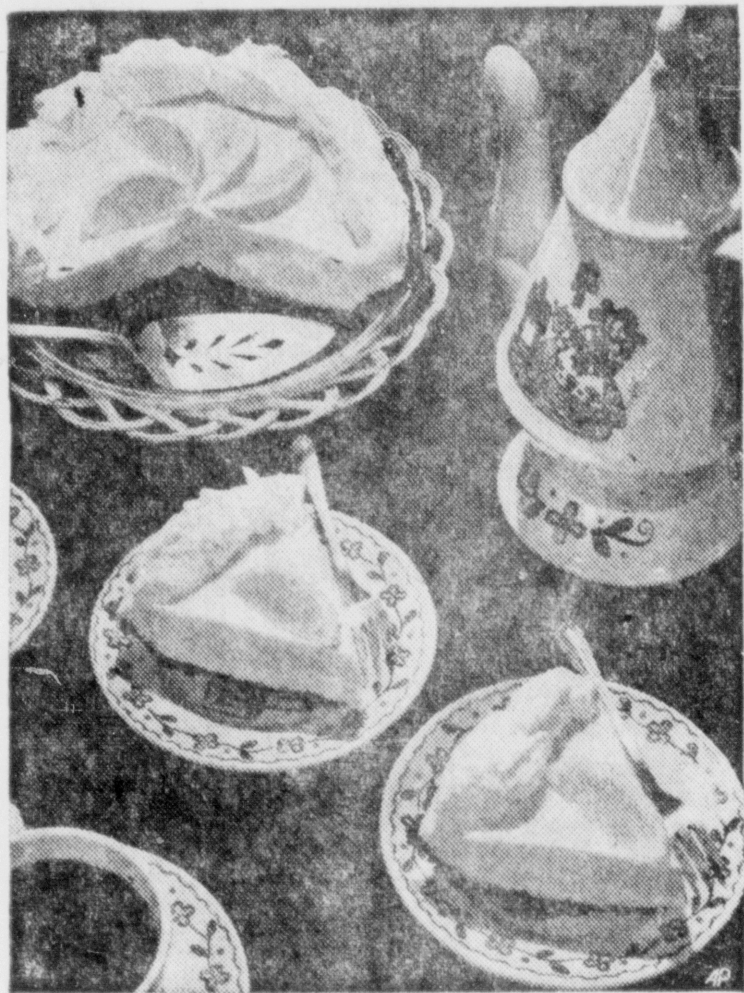

Summertime lemon pie is made the easy no-bake way.

For the crust use chocolate cookie crumbs mixed with a little sugar and melted butter. No baking necessary.

The filling is a fluffy concoction made with fresh lemon juice and gelatin that needs only brief cooking on top of the range.

One word of warning. Use really good chocolate cookies for the crumbs. At least one of the packaged varieties has an overwhelming amount of baking soda; often excellent chocolate cookies can be found at a local bakery that specializes in fine products. Better to use a graham cracker crust than one made with chocolate cookies overlaid with soda!

After you've found the best chocolate cookies, roll them into crumbs the easy way: put them into a plastic bag and close tightly. Then crumb the cookies by crushing them with a rolling pin. If a plastic bag isn't at hand, roll the cookies between a couple of sheets of wax paper. Or forget the hand-work and use the electric blender.

LEMON FLUFF PIE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
4 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup freshly squeezed lemon juice

LEMON FLUFF PIE — Made with a cookie crust and a filling that's as light and refreshing as a cool summer breeze.

2 teaspoons grated lemon Chocolate Crumb Crust. Top with dollops of remaining 1 cup heavy cream, whipped cream; chill until 9-inch Chocolate Crumb firm.

There will be a short business meeting to make plans for the fall season. All members and friends are invited to attend. In case of inclement weather, the pot-luck will be held at the church.

Chocolate Crumb Crust

1 1/4 cups finely crushed chocolate cookie crumbs
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted

Stir together cookie crumbs and sugar; gradually stir in butter, and mix well. Press on to bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate; chill. Use for Lemon Fluff Pie.

Lady Lineman Been Climbing Poles For Years

WILBURTON, Okla. (AP) — Look there, up in the sky. Is it a mirage? Is it a stunt? No, it's Linda Little, lady lineman.

Her female form perched atop a telephone pole is no new sight around this southeast Oklahoma town. Linda, 22, has been climbing for years for her family owned Oklahoma Western Telephone Co.

"I was reared in a phone company," explains the petite mother of two. "When my father was alive, I used to follow him around. He would take me out in all kinds of weather."

"I found out I'd rather shimmy up a pole to be close to him than to stay down on the ground where I could be hit with a pair of pliers that were dropped."

Her father, the late Luther Morris, founded the phone company, which now serves nine towns. Her mother is semiretired from the company and "about all she does is sign the checks," said Mrs. Little.

"I remember my dad telling me that it was important to know every phase of the work so if anything happened, I could take over," she said. "There hasn't been any part of it that I haven't done."

Mrs. Little, who lives at Clayton, Okla., used to work a switchboard in the family telephone system before it went to dialing.

"One thing about climbing, it'll sure keep you trim," she said.

DENTURE USE INCREASES

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Prosthodontic Society says one of four persons by age 40 needs partial or complete dentures and the ratio increases to one out of two by age 50.

Prosthodontists, who specialize in replacing missing teeth, says a space from a tooth extraction should be promptly filled with a bridge because it allows teeth to drift out of line.

They also warn against trying to correct the fit of dentures with do-it-yourself reliners and repair kits.

Their advice is: See your dentist.

Subsidized Farmers Could Help Wildlife

LANSING (AP) — Willare Musolf of Oscoda, tireless president of the Michigan Deer Hunters Association, has an idea that would benefit all wildlife—including deer.

Musolf notes that 80,000 Michigan farmers received $65,314, 196 in 1967-68 federal price supports and acreage diversion payments—for doing nothing.

"Why not require that these farmers do something for wildlife," he suggests.

"An area along the Saginaw Valley might be put into habitat for ducks or geese. Or two or three rows of Scotch pine would provide a wind break."

"Musolf says the type of project would vary geographically around the state.

"But anything that benefits deer will help pheasants and all game," he claims.

Game Preserves
Musolf notes that three Bay County farmers collected $32,250 and 15 in Huron County $143,000.

He says farmers might either set up their diverted lands as game preserves or, with the aid of hunters, make them wonderful control places for hunting studies.

Dr. Don Douglass, Department of Natural Resources Game Chief, admits Musolf's idea has a lot of merit.

"We might change the flight pattern of waterfowl," suggests Douglass. "We have lands along the Saginaw River which might provide overnight stops."

Douglass points out that farmers might be required to put in some kind of crop and leave a portion standing.

"Buck wheat and oats do the best," he explains. "They help all kinds of game."

Arlof Boyce, Game Division private lands habitat development specialist, says the legal machinery for habitat financing on private lands is already in existence.

Collect 80% Of Cost
"Under the Federal Agricultural Conservation Program, a farmer can complete approved projects and collect 80 per cent of the cost," he explains.

Included are planting food patches, meadow seeding for nesting cover, shallow water impoundment for waterfowl habitat and planting trees and shrubs for permanent food and cover."

"The crux is the county committees—in each county the committee handles the purse strings."

"They can say you want to put in a 10-acre food patch and the guy down the road wants to put lime on his pasture. So we're going to give the money for his pasture."

"This is what often happens—the committees are made up of local farmers who may, themselves, be eligible for cost-sharing practices," Boyce explains.

"The Agriculture Conservation Program budget is $4.5 to $5-million per year in Michigan. Yet as much as 25-per cent goes for drainage—actually in conflict with conservation practices."

Paid For Fencing

"Liming for the production of legumes such as alfalfa is the No. 1 agriculture practice—alfalfa takes a lot of lime and many other crops are assisted by lime," he stresses.

He estimates over 90 per cent of the lime applied in Michigan is cost-shared by the ACP.

Another conflict in the program, he notes, is that farmers get paid up to $1.50 per rod for fencing to protect wildlife habitat while, under another ACP-subsidized practice, get paid for constructing open drainage and upsetting the natural water course.

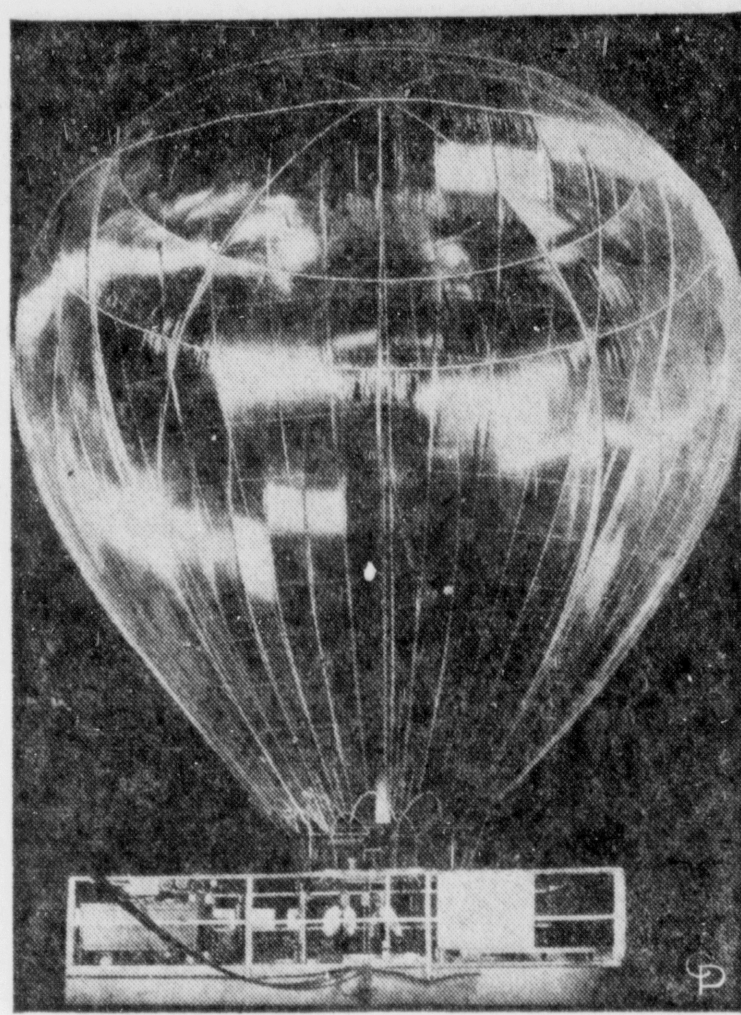

"But there's no requirement for fencing the water course to protect it from cattle or prohibiting farming to the brink and filling it back in with sediment."

He stresses the ACP can provide 50 per cent of the cost of building farm ponds up to $3,000—in direct conflict with tilting, for which farmers are also paid. But most local committees only pay up to $500 or $600 for ponds.

Boyce sees hope in the new state Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation committee "taking a progressive, cold-blooded look and making changes—if they can overcome the long tradition.

"But I can't recall a representative of a sportsman's organization ever attending a meeting when the committee established the year's program."

"There's no reason why the taxpaying sportsman should not have a voice in these matters," he concludes.

Bay Cliff Toy Drive Tremendous Success

The toy drive for the handicapped children attending Bay Cliff Health Camp near Marquette was a tremendous success, local Bay Cliff chairman Mrs. Roland Hoholik said Monday.

Many boxes of games, puzzles, stuffed animals, bikes, tricycles, wagons etc. helped fill the dull moments in the schedule of the campers. The local committee extend their thanks to the "many generous people in Schoolcraft County who recognized the need," Mrs. Hoholik said.

Children attending the Camp are afflicted with a wide variety of ailments including cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, diabetes, epilepsy, birth defects and cardiac problems. Bay Cliff's speech program served 153 campers in cooperation with Northern Michigan University which provided 13 speech correction therapists.

The camp's physical therapy department served 65 orthopedically handicapped children and its occupational therapy department served 65 orthopedically handicapped children. The hearing program served 16 campers.

Two social workers and a psychologist were assigned to the Camp this year. The camp's dental program, sponsored by the Mott Foundation, had the services of a dentist and two hygienists. The camp staff also included two registered nurses.

The nine area children attending the camp were able to do so through monies raised during the CBC Drive in Manistique this spring.

The Republicans, with the lone exception of Don Reagle, voted solidly for extension, which President Nixon wanted, although he did not explicitly support the compromise as worked out in the Senate last week.

The Democrats divided 3-3, with Charles Diggs pairing against John Conyers, John Dingell and William Ford voted against surtax extension while Martha Griffiths, Lucien Nedzi and James O'Hara voted for it.

In the whole House, 85 Democrats and 152 Republicans voted for extension while 144 Democrats and 26 Republicans voted against it.

New Car Sales Down In U.S.

DETROIT (AP) — New car sales in the United States by the four major automakers showed an 11 per cent decline on a daily rate basis in late July compared with a year ago, with only Ford Motor Co. showing an increase.

Ford, which boasted record sales for July, said it reflected "continuing momentum dating back to the introduction of the Maverick in April."

Ford said it has sold 101,210 of the economy size Maverick since April 17, outpacing the sales rate of its earlier new car record holder, the Mustang.

The four auto companies sold 277,153 cars in the July 21-31 period which contained ten selling days. Last year, 283,138 automobiles were sold in the period which had nine selling days.

The industry's sales pace is slightly behind last year's. For the first seven months of the year, 5,039,041 units were sold compared to 5,078,063 at the same time a year ago.

The total July sales showed a dip from last year from 662,598 units reported sold this year compared to 736,574 last year.

The car sales of the major companies in the last third of July compared with last year included General Motors, 134,449 to 141,492 last year; Ford, 86,274 to 81,379; Chrysler, 48,295 to 51,476, and American Motors, 8,135 to 8,791.

Birmingham Police Picket City Hall

BIRMINGHAM (AP) — Off-duty Birmingham policemen picketed the city hall Monday to protest what they called the city's "unwillingness to negotiate in good faith."

Gordon Baker, Birmingham Police Officers Association president, said the group will "pursue all legal channels available until the city becomes realistic and reasonable."

Besides picketing city hall, members of the Detroit suburb's police department also drove around the city with signs telling citizens of the deadlock in negotiations.

The police are working without a contract.

Lansing To Fight Housing 'Blackmail'

LANSING (AP) — Mayor Gerald W. Graves says he will fight a federal decision that "hinges on blackmail" involving litigation in a low cost housing case.

Lansing officials were notified by the Chicago office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development that federal funds for certain urban renewal projects would be held up until the housing case was dropped or settled.

"No action can be taken regarding subject application until litigation has been completed in the case" in question, the Chicago office said.

That case, now pending in federal court, involves construction of a turn-key housing project in Lansing.

Graves said the federal government was "trying to tell the voters of this city and its elected officials that they must respond like a yo-yo on a string or face the consequences."

The federal housing case has no connection with the city's urban renewal projects, Graves maintained.

MANISTIQUE

School Offered Small Settlement

A $7,448.51 settlement has been offered the Manistique Area Schools to quiet their demand for back state aid payments for the 1966 - 67 and 1967 - 68 school years.

The settlement offer came in a letter from Asst. Attorney General Eugene Krasicky after the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled last Friday that the local school district is entitled to state aid reimbursement funds for the two year period.

It is unlikely, however, that the local district will accept the settlement since, by their computations, the reimbursement should run in excess of $100,000.

Instead, the local district through their legal representatives Herbert, Wood and Hood are expected to ignore the settlement offer and instead present the State Board of Education with a writ of mandamus requesting payment computed in accordance with provisions in the 1965 Reorganization Act.

The Manistique Area Schools estimate their reimbursement due for the 1966-67 school year at $52,831. For the 1967 - 68 school year, the estimate is $62,674.

In his letter to the law firm of Herbert, Wood and Hood, the assistant attorney general said he was prepared to recommend to the State Board of Education (defendants in the lawsuit) that no appeal be taken.

Should the State Board of Education appeal the decision, the matter could be decided by the Michigan Supreme Court.

Only Challenger
The opinion by the Appeals Court did not indicate how the reimbursement should be computed nor did it specify any amount of monies due to local Troopers also arrested and jailed David J. Duxburg, 28, of Detroit for driving while under the influence of intoxicants. Duxburg was arrested at 1:45 Sunday morning near the Deer St.-M-94 intersection in Manistique. He was unable to furnish $100 bond and also faces arraignment in District Court before Judge Charles A. Stark this week.

Church Events
ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH
Summer services at the Zion Lutheran Church in Manistique are held each Sunday at 10:30 a. m. with services at the Bethany Lutheran Church in Isabella at 8:45 a. m.

Guest preacher at Bethany on Aug. 10 and 17 at both churches will be U. S. A. Heggblom of Manistique, Northeast District representative on the Evangelical Committee of the Wisconsin-Supper Michigan Synod of the Lutheran Church in America.

Bandit Suspect Buys $1 Of Gas

SOMERSET CENTER (AP) — Police are not saying what leads they have in their search for a gunman who may have stopped his getaway car to buy a dollar's worth of gasoline just after robbing $5,200 from a Somerset Center bank Monday.

Walt Kerstetter, manager of the Somerset Center branch of the Litchfield State Savings Bank, said a man wearing a yellow tee-shirt, red suspenders and yellow-tint sunglasses used a pistol to rob the bank and make good his escape.

A service station attendant a few blocks away said a man meeting that description bought a dollar's worth of gasoline from him just after the time of the robbery. The man waited for change for a $5 bill.

Police threw up a roadblock immediately to stop the getaway car. But by mid-afternoon Monday, the roadblocks were removed without having caught the holdup man.

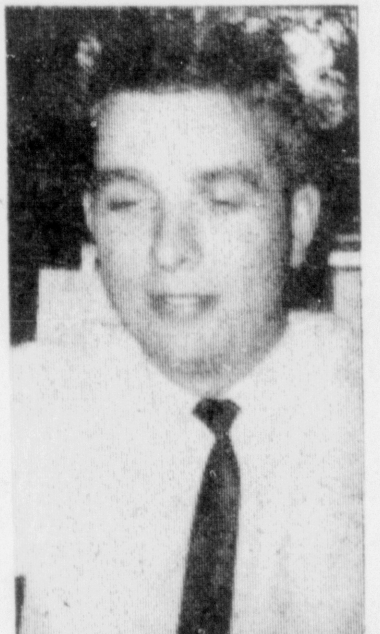

A car meeting the description of the getaway vehicle was found later abandoned on Vickary Road between Hillsdale and Jackson, a few miles north of Somerset Center.

Police said the car had been reported stolen in Jackson last Thursday.

Frank Baker Does His Thing Against Orioles

By The Associated Press
Frank "Home Run" Baker did his thing Monday night. It wasn't in an old timers' game—it's been 47 years since the original "Home Run" Baker played his last major league game—but in an American League contest and the Frank Baker in question is a 25-year-old outfielder who reached the majors little more than a week ago.

"I'm doing the same thing here I was doing in Waterbury a couple of weeks ago," Baker said after hitting a single and his first big league homer in Cleveland's 2-0 victory over Baltimore. In nine games, Baker has 11 hits in 24 at-bats for a .458 average, with a double and three triples in addition to his homer.

Hargan Goes Route
With Waterbury in the Eastern League he hit .312 in 84 games with nine doubles, two triples, six homers and 32 runs batted in.

Cleveland's Steve Hargan

stopped the hard-hitting Orioles on four hits as he continued his comeback from several years of arm trouble. Baker unloaded his homer in the fourth inning and Ken Harrelson hit his 21st in the seventh as Tom Phoebus suffered his fourth setback in 15 decisions. The Orioles were last shut out on May 6.

Baker's .458 average may be shocking a lot of American League pitchers, but it isn't fazing him.

"No, I'm not surprised," he said. "Well, maybe a little," he qualified it. "I think I can hit .280 or .290 up here or anywhere. Actually, it's easier to hit here than in the minors. I see the ball better because the lights are better and the pitchers aren't so wild."

Hit High Ball
"But I'm not doing anything different. I'm still swinging at everything they throw close. If I take, I'm in trouble."

Baker even ruined Baltimore's scouting report.

"We heard he was a low ball hitter," said Manager Earl Weaver, "and so we pitched him high, and what does he do but hit the high fast ball."

Minnesota broke loose for five runs in the first inning against Detroit and went on to trounce the defending champs behind Bob Miller and Ron Perranoski.

Reds' Sluggers Relax But Pitchers Do Job

By The Associated Press
After slugging their way into first place, Cincinnati hitters must have thought they earned a day off, but fortunately their pitchers showed up and did a day's work for a change.

Going from the ridiculous to the sublime, the Reds followed Sunday's 19-17 victory over Philadelphia with a heavenly 1-0 triumph over the New York Mets Monday night that must have left toiling Jim Maloney wondering where everyone went.

Coming back himself from arm miseries, Maloney had his work cut out for him as his teammates managed only Alex Johnson's sacrifice fly off Jerry Koonsman in the third inning. But Maloney made it stand up with a two-hitter for 8 2-3 innings before Wayne Granger got the last out, a stunning performance for the normally battered staff of the Reds.

Giants Fall Back
The victory, the seventh in eight games, increased Cincinnati's lead in the West Division of the National League to a half game over San Francisco and one game over Atlanta, who started the evening only percentage points behind.

The Giants fell back when their game at Philadelphia was rained out with the Phillies leading 2-0 in the third inning, and Montreal dropped the Braves with a 7-1 victory.

Los Angeles, in fourth place, went two games behind by losing to the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, and the fifth-place Houston Astros fell three lengths back when the Chicago Cubs crushed them 9-3, in the only other game.

The Cubs' victory also increased their East Division bulge to seven games over the Mets, who now stand only 2 1/2 ahead of the surging Cardinals.

After pounding 25 hits Sunday, Cincinnati's best-hitting team in the majors could collect only six off Koonsman, 8-7.

Maloney, 5-2, yielded only a two-out double to Wayne Granger in the second and a single by Tommie Agee with two out in the sixth. He struck out three, but his third walk, with two out in the ninth, ended his bid for his first complete game since his no-hitter against Houston April 30.

Pete Rose walked with one out in the third and took third on Bobby Tolan's single before Johnson hit his fly.

"We didn't have too many chances to win against Maloney's pitching. We can't win ball games unless we score runs," said Manager Gil Hodges of the Mets, maybe still a bit stunned at being the first team blanked by the Reds since June 23.

It was little consolation to Koonsman that he was the first pitcher to hold the Reds to less than two runs since June 22 and the first to lose a 1-0 game to them since Aug. 29, 1967.

Cepeda Connects
Jerry Robertson, 3-9, gave Montreal one of its few well-pitched games against the slugger, Cepeda, who managed eight hits, but scored only with two out in the ninth on Orlando Cepeda's 300th career homer.

Taylor Joins Detroit Drills

BLOOMFIELD HILLS (AP)—Former Utah State star Albie Taylor, a standout with the College All-Stars, arrived at the Detroit Lions training camp Monday to an enthusiastic reception from small fans and beefy players and coaches.

Taylor, a surprise standout in the All-Stars' near miss against the New York Jets Friday night setting up two scores on a 74-yard kickoff return and a 54-yard pass reception, fought his way through a mob of youngsters into the dressing room, then repaired to the field and showed the coaches he's in top shape.

In blocking drills, he gave full-back Nick Eddy several hard pops, and in passing drills, he was a standout.

Taylor, the Lions' first pick and a second-round draft choice, is expected to back up Mel Farr as the top Detroit outside running threat.

Wood, Andrews Turn In 35s

Even par rounds of 35 were turned in by Bill Wood of Gladstone and Dave Andrews of Escanaba to lead Lions Club golfers in a three-club outing Monday at the Highland Golf Club.

Jim Schultz of Escanaba carded a 38 to finish third. Other prize winners were Grover Lewis, Fred Saykally and Walt Peterson, high gross scores; Forrest Henslee and Jack Manning, least puts (13); Ben Douglas, low for Bark River Lions, 46; Dick Weycker, four-putt green; Walter VanDeWeghe, most sixes (6); Don Scott, moves fives (5), and Dr. M. H. Garrard, all two-putt greens.

Minnesota's Honest Bob Stops Tigers On 4 Hits

DETROIT (AP)—Honest Bob Miller

No, he's not a used car dealer. He's a pitcher for the Minnesota Twins who won't take advantage of a well-pitched game to brighten his image.

Miller, who has been a so-so pitcher in the major leagues since 1957, pitched a four-hitter for his 7 1-3 innings Monday night as the Twins coasted past the Detroit Tigers 7-1.

The two teams were to meet again tonight with Denny McLain, 18-6, scheduled to pitch for Detroit against Dean Chance, 3-1.

"I've been around a long time," he conceded calmly. "I've had some bad years and even a few good ones."

The 30-year-old righthander, who has been both a starter and reliever, started his career with St. Louis. After nine years in the minor and National Leagues he was traded along with relief ace Ron Perranoski from Los Angeles to Minnesota in 1968 for shortstop Zoilo Versalles.

Can Be Strong
"I'm the kind of pitcher who can be strong and strong and strong," he said after Monday's win evened his record at 4-4.

"But when it goes from me, it's gone."

Twins Manager Billy Martin said Miller told him to be ready to warm someone up because he might get tired. Martin brought in Miller's roommate Perranoski to finish up with one out in the seventh. Perranoski got credit for a save, his 21st of the year and Minnesota's 30th.

"By the sixth or seventh I told Billy I was losing something and for him to stay close to me," said Miller, who's career record is 43-61.

Boost Advantage
"I've been starting and relieving him and that takes a lot out of a guy," Martin added. "He's done a great job for me. . . My back was against the wall and I thought I'd give him a try. Boswell gets a sore finger and Miller comes in and does the job."

Dave Boswell normally would have been scheduled to pitch the game except for the injury.

The victory was the 28th for the Twins in 36 games and boosted their lead over Oakland in the American League West to three games.

Minnesota took advantage of first-inning wildness on the part of rookie Mike Kilkenny, 1-2, making his second major league start.

He walked Cesar Tovar to start the game and Rod Carew's bunt single and a walk to Harmon Killebrew loaded the bases. Tony Oliva's grounder got a walk to Harmon Killebrew loaded the bases. Tony Oliva's grounder got one run home and Kilkenny struck out Bob Allison for the second out.

But he walked Leo Cardenas, refilled the bases, and Rick Renick promptly doubled inside third and Tom Tischenki singled for two more runs. The Twins added a single run in the fifth when Carew walked, stole second and scored on Killebrew's single. In the seventh a single by Tovar, a stolen base, and a single by Oliva brought in the final Twins tally.

Miller yielded his only run in the third on Don Wert's single.

Young Soviets In Black Market

MOSCOW (AP) — A small army of young Russians has swung into action to unload Western visitors to Moscow of everything they will sell.

Summer is the peak season for the hard-working black marketers who roam central Moscow, stocking up their inventory for the long winter months ahead.

"I'll buy anything. What will you sell?" one young Russian recently asked a startled American woman.

She shook him away, and he went merrily off looking for another prospect.

The great majority of impromptu friendships struck up between young Russians and foreigners eventually involve an offer or a sale—and much of the merchandise finds its way into Moscow's flourishing illegal black market.

Magazines

Books and magazines—especially on sex or politics—are among the hottest items this summer. But almost anything made in the West moves fast on the Moscow market.

High prices are paid for sunglasses, cigarettes, shoes, ballpoint pens, cosmetics, rings, ties, cufflinks, jazz records, shortwave radios, liquor, automobile accessories, women's underwear, flight bags from foreign airlines, any kind of clothing, and of course dollars or other Western money.

The Russian who dares to go in for this kind of illegal activity is an expert at spotting a foreigner. Good shoes are the surest giveaway. Nothing manufactured in the West looks quite like a Russian shoe.

The enterprising buyer usually speaks limited English or French, the vocabulary being highly specialized in such commercial terms as "buy," "sell," "how much" and "too much."

Playboy

No figures are available on the volume of trade that moves through this disorganized underground supply service, but it is certainly substantial.

It is a rare foreigner who passes through Moscow without encountering an eager buyer.

Foreign newspapers can be sold for a ruble apiece and such girlie magazines as Playboy are worth 10 rubles a copy. The ruble is $1.11 at the official exchange rate.

It is common to find banned books in the apartments of Moscow's intellectuals, authors ranging from Henry Miller to Svetlana Alliluyeva. All have been purchased at probably double or triple the publisher's price.

Even the New York Review of Sex can be obtained if one has good connections with the "fart-sovshchiki," the untranslatable slang name for the illegal operators.

Often the friendly young Russian who approaches a tourist wants only to change money, offering five rubles to the dollar, or about 500 per cent above the official rate.

A foreigner who sells either ends up with plenty of extra rubles or plenty of trouble. Expulsion could follow. For the Russian money changers there is a special law providing imprisonment for three to eight years, but those caught operating on a "large scale" can get the death penalty.

Budge Quizzed On Job Offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Republicans and Democrats are fighting over conflict of interest allegations against Hamer H. Budge, the chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission is wondering why he didn't accept the job offer which set off the squabble.

Asked Monday why he refused the $80,000 a year post with six mutual funds, Budge told a Senate subcommittee wearily, "I wish I knew. In hindsight, I wish I knew."

Republicans on the subcommittee contend that Budge's testimony proved he was not guilty of any wrongdoing and he should be given an immediate clean bill of health.

But Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., said the next step would be an executive session of the subcommittee on banking and currency to decide whether Budge should be prosecuted by the Justice Department under criminal statutes.

Harrison said he agreed with Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who requested the hearing, that Budge should not have negotiated for the presidency of the mutual funds while directing the agency which regulates the funds.

"If Chairman Budge had a hand in the cookie jar, let's say so," said Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass. "But in this instance we have failed to find a case. So let's not talk about bringing the Department of Justice into it."

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, criticized Proxmire as one who pushed for "this inquisition."

Goodrich Develops Inflatable Jack

NEW YORK (AP) — B. F. Goodrich has announced development of what it described as the first practical inflatable rubber jack for automobiles.

The one-piece, teardrop-shaped unit weighs 2½ pounds. When deflated it is 3 inches high and 13 inches in diameter. When inflated it is 9½ inches in diameter at the bottom and 8½ inches at the top, and is 21 inches high.

Inflation is accomplished with a pressure bottle of air or gas or with an air pump.

PLENTY OF ACTION!

Jets Aren't Acting Much Like Champs

By The Associated Press

The New York Jets aren't acting much like football's world champions, on the field or off.

Their 26-24 victory Friday night over the College All-Stars was a pyrrhic one at best—and their defensive captain's run-in with the collegians' coach, Otto Graham, during the final minutes won't make it any easier for the Jets to restore their pride.

If Commissioner Pete Rozelle enters the picture in the Sample case, the Jets might be a little distracted when they take on the Cardinals in St. Louis on Saturday, just as they were uneasy during the sensitive negotiations which brought back quarterback Joe Namath from his brief retirement.

Sample had a running battle of words with Graham during the game when the Jet cornerback decked an All-Star receiver in the final minutes. Graham rushed on the field to protest. Graham incurred a cut on his nose by Sample's helmet and a 15-yard penalty. Moments later, Sample was victimized on a touchdown pass.

Sample On Bench

Jets Coach Weeb Ewbank, distressed because of the touchdown in Sample's coverage area, indicated Monday that the volatile cornerback would see little, if any action, against the Cardinals. Ewbank said he'll use Cornell Gordon and rookie Cecil Leonard.

Sample also will have to wait awhile to find out if he faces any disciplinary action because of his skirmish with Graham. Both Rozelle and Mark Duncan, pro football's supervisor of officials, were not in New York Monday. When the officials' report of the game reaches Rozelle's New York office, Duncan will routinely review it. If any action is necessary, Rozelle enters the picture.

In another development, Namath said in a magazine article Monday that FBI agents began shadowing him after last season's upset defeat of the Jets by the Buffalo Bills and the Denver Broncos and that the FBI visited him in Florida while training for the Super Bowl.

Assistant director John Malone of the FBI's New York office said Namath's statements regarding telephone taps, the FBI following him or investigating him were not true. Namath's comments came in an article written for True Magazine with author Dick Schaap.

Ewbank said he would play Namath for the first half, "just enough to get his timing," in the Cardinal game and indicated he'd follow that practice for the five remaining pre-season games.

Tarkenton To Play

While the Jets had their problems, the New York Giants and the Chicago Bears got a boost. Giant quarterback Fran Tarkenton, who tore a muscle in his throwing arm a week ago, threw long and hard Monday and will start against the Packers in Green Bay Saturday night.

Gayle Sayers, the Bears' sensational running back, appeared well healed from his knee injury last November. Although the Bears lost to Washington 13-7, Sayers wound up with 83 yards, more than any runner or pass receiver, in the weekend exhibition. He said he will start against the Dolphins in Miami Saturday night. "I know I'm ready," he said.

The Dallas Cowboys announced that veteran defensive tackle Jethro Pugh will not play Friday night in the pre-season opener against the Los Angeles Rams. Pugh was hospitalized last week because of an ulcer attack, but he was in camp Monday.

Tiger Tales

By The Associated Press

Mickey Lolich became the fifth consecutive American League player to receive the American Legion's baseball Graduate-of-the-Year Award when he was presented the honor for 1968 prior to Monday night's game. Boston's Carl Yastrzemski won it in 1967.

Lolich, Detroit's outstanding southpaw who won three games in the World Series and had a 17-4 regular season record, is 14-4 already this year. He played all American Legion baseball with Hollywood Post No. 105 at Portland, Ore., before signing his pro contract.

Nearly 62 per cent of the players in the majors last year gained experience in the Legion's program, now in its 44th nationwide season.

Jim Northrup, who has been out of the Tiger lineup with a pulled hamstring muscle, says "it'll be any day now," when he'll be ready to play. "I was ready to pinch hit today, but Mayo (Manager Mayo Smith) wasn't going to use me in any double play situation."

MILESTONES: Don Wert's two singles Monday night were his 800th and 801st major league hits. Bill Freehan needs just one more run batted in to reach 400. Mickey Lolich needs three more victories to hit the 100 mark. For Minnesota, two more runs for Tony Oliva will give him 500 in his young career.

State BR Team Whips Indiana

APPLETON, Wis. (AP)—The Indiana and Wisconsin state champions were eliminated Monday night from the six-state Ohio Valley regional Babe Ruth baseball tournament, leaving the field to Detroit, host Appleton, St. Matthews, Ky., and Springfield, Ohio.

Detroit's three-run sixth inning assured a 5-3 victory over Terre Haute, Ind., and an unearned run in the seventh gave Appleton a 1-0 victory over Wisconsin titlist Janesville.

Spade Cooley Set For Parole

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Parole in February is in store for Spade Cooley, country-style bandleader once known as the king of western swing.

Cooley has been imprisoned since he was convicted in the 1961 slaying of his wife, Ella Mae.

The California Adult Authority said Monday the musician — whose real name is Donnell Cooley — would be freed in February but did not specify a date. He will have served 8½ years.

Cooley, now 58, was convicted of second-degree murder in Kern County Superior Court at Bakersfield in July 1961.

The statutory term for this is five years to life. But under California law, the Adult Authority determines the time to be served. It denied Cooley a request for parole a year ago.

Mrs. Cooley was found dead April 3, 1961 at the family ranch near Willow Springs.

At his trial, Cooley's daughter, Melody, then 14, testified that she saw the bandleader drag her 37-year-old mother partially nude from the shower. She further testified that Cooley stomped on his wife's body, burned her with cigarettes and strangled her. Cooley had filed suit for divorce several months before the killing.

The song for which Cooley is probably best remembered is "Shame, Shame On You."

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Bill Spells Out Obscene Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress should pass a law spelling out in detail what constitutes obscene mail, the chairman of the House Post Office Committee said today.

"The problem of pornography has been with us for years, but control of smut mail has been aggravated in recent years by various court decisions," said Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y.

"In the matter of mailings into homes where there are minors, my bill has spelled out—in quite graphic language so there can be no doubt at all—exactly what we mean in this legislation as being obscene."

Dulski was the leadoff witness at anti-obscenity hearings by a subcommittee on postal operations.

His bill, cosponsored by several committee members, would prohibit mailing to anyone under 16 any material depicting or describing nudity, sexual conduct or sado-masochism in a way "designed primarily to appeal to the prurient interests of the viewer."

The bill defines nudity, sexual conduct and sado-masochistic abuse in some detail.

The special prohibition on mailing obscene matter to youngsters would be added to existing legislation which prohibits mailing of smut material to anyone protesting to the Post Office.

Dulski said his bill also incorporates several of President Nixon's proposals against obscene mail.

One of these proposals would make it a federal crime to use the mails for commercial exploitation of a prurient interest in sex through advertising. Another would extend the present law so citizens could have the Post Office stop any obscene mail to them even if they have never received any.

GM Dividend

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of General Motors Corp. have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 85 cents on common stock, payable Sept. 10 to stockholders of record Aug. 14.

The dividend, announced Monday, brings GM's dividend payments to $2.80 per share for the first nine months of this year, the same as that paid in the nine-month span of 1968.

Astronauts Set For Public Orbit

NEW YORK (AP) — The Apollo 11 astronauts are scheduled to end their quarantine next week and launch into an orbit of public acclamation.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the exact time had not been set for the release Monday from quarantine at Houston of Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., and Michael Collins.

They are scheduled to hold a news conference in Houston at 11 a.m. EDT Aug. 12, followed by a luncheon with nearly 700 blue-collar space workers at the Shamrock-Hilton Hotel at 2 p.m. The plans call for the astronauts to fly out of Ellington Air Force base in Texas about 6 a.m. Aug. 13th for New York. There will be a three hour ticker tape parade in Manhattan, after which they fly to Chicago for a two and a half hour parade there.

Then it's on to Los Angeles and a state dinner at the Century Plaza Hotel Wednesday evening, attended by President Nixon. All 50 state governors have been invited, as well as all of the nation's astronauts and all NASA executives.

Return to Houston is scheduled for the morning of Thursday, Aug. 14.

On Saturday, Aug. 16, a parade in downtown Houston will honor the Apollo 11 trio, followed by a mammoth party at the Astrodome, with all space workers and astronauts invited. Producer David Merrick is in charge of the entertainment.

President Nixon will not be involved in the various parades and other ceremonies, except for the state dinner in Los Angeles.

When Congress reconvenes the first week in September, it is expected the Apollo 11 team will appear before a joint session. However, no date has been set.

Three Oil Slicks Appear Static

POINTE PELEE, Ont. (AP)—Three large oil slicks sighted Monday a mile offshore are static and show no signs of moving toward beaches in the area. U. S. Coast Guard officials said today.

A U. S. helicopter reported three slicks, each about half a mile long. The crew said air bubbles appeared to be erupting from under water.

Canadian Coast Guard officials said they had checked out the U.S. sightings and informed the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

A federal government official connected with oil and natural gas drilling in Lake Erie said there are no known producing drill holes closer than eight miles to the Canadian shore in the Point Pelee area. Some were drilled unsuccessfully two miles east of Point Pelee about ten years ago. Point Pelee is about 40 miles southeast of Windsor.

Evict Tenant, He Complained

DETROIT (AP) — George Tyssen Butler, complains he's being evicted from his apartment because he complained to the City Health Department about housing code violations.

The landlord, Louie Sherman, says Butler is a trouble maker, charging that some of the violations were Butler's fault.

Butler says no, that the eviction was retaliatory and therefore illegal.

Butler publishes a community newspaper, the Oakland Lion, out of the room. And in the Lion, he has urged tenants to take housing complaints to the city.

"Housing is one of the biggest problems we have in the neighborhood," Butler said. "If the newspaper gets evicted on unconstitutional, illegal grounds, it will take away a lot of the paper's power when we tell people to call the Health Department on their landlords."

A city health inspector found twelve violations, included a broken skylight that let rain in holes in a kitchen wall, a leak in the bathtub, damaged window sashes and defective electrical outlets.

Butler also charged that rats foraged in the garbage cans in the backyard and that roaches were in the apartment.

Sherman said some of the damage, such as the broken skylight, was done by Butler.

The case is now being heard by the landlord-tenant division of Common Pleas Court.
